ILLITERACY IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Statement Given Out by Miss Wil Lou Gray, Supervisor of Adult Schools.

Columbia, July 26—According to figures given out here today by Miss Wil Lou Gray, supervisor of adult schools, on the percentage of illiteracy in South Carolina among the population from ten years and over, Charleston County had the distinction in 1910 of having the smallest number of white illiterates of any of the counties of the State. Charleston's percentage was 1 and 8-10ths, and the county next to her, Edgefield, had 3 and 4-10ths per cent. However, Charleston came eleventh in the column of general averages, due to the percentage of negro illiterates, which has 32 and 7-10ths per cent, making a total average of 21 and 2-10th per cent. Charleston was credited with 14,721, illiterates out of a total of 276,960 illiterates for the State. The total population of South Carolina, according to the 1910 census, on which the illiteracy figures are based, was 1,515,460, and the number of white illiterates aggregated 50,245, compared with 226,242 for the negro race. The average of white illiteracy for the State was 10.3 per cent and of negro illiteracy 38.7 per cent.

The table shows that the percentage of illiteracy in the following twenty-three counties of the State was 25 per cent and over. Barnwell, Beaufort, Berkeley, Calhoun, Chester, field, Clarendon, Colleton, Darlington, Dillon, Dorchester, Edgefield, Fairfield, Georgetown, Hampton, Kershaw, Lancaster, Laurens, Lee, Marlboro, Union, Williamsburg and York.

Likewise the table shows that the percentage of illiteracy in the following twelve counties of the State was 12 per cent and over. Cherokee, Chesterfield, Darlington, Dillon, Georgetown, Horry, Marlboro, Oconee, Pickens, Spartanburg, Union and Williamsburg:

The tables follow:

W. J. Cormack.

CAN AND WILL THE BAPTISTS DO IT?

The answer is an unqualified Yes. And this answer is given because the undertaking had its beginning in the denominational heart and conscience. The campaign was ordered by the unanimous vote of nearly five thousand messengers in attendance upon the Southern Baptist Convention at Atlanta last May. It was the expressed will of Southern Baptists that the money should be raised, and Southern Baptists have ability to match their will. In answer to the query "Can the Baptists raise $75,000,000?" Dr. E. Y. Mullins, President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, says: "It is my strong conviction that we are able to do it. My reasons are: That in numbers, in wealth, in enthusiasm, and in the conviction of our people we are abundantly able to do it." Hon. E. W. Stevens, formerly President of the Southern Baptist Convention answers: "Most assuredly we can raise it. The South was never so prosperous, nor were its people ever so full of hope and enthusiasm." Dr. George W. McDaniel, pastor of the First Baptist church, Richmond, Va., says: "Three million white Baptists, enjoying prosperity and living in a section of increasing wealth, can readily raise seven-five millions for the Kingdom in five years." Mr. J. H. Anderson, Knoxville, Tenn., a rich and thoroughly and passionately interested layman, answers: "Yes—a thousand times, Yes."
